

Bringing mountains and PAs back into our lives

To what extent
can PAs reduce
human impact
within
mountain
regions?

- Effective management of the PAs and successful governance is an imperative, since human pressure has intensified more within PAs than outside.

- We call for more protected areas to address human impact in remaining wild areas.

Assessments capturing social impacts, as these are perceived by local communities, will be extremely useful in informing decisions in the context of the new EU biodiversity strategy and the proposed new Green Deal.
