

CARPATHIAN DAY

Romanian Showcase - A celebration by the people, for the people

26 of September

ROMANIAN CARPATHIANS

a sanctuary for biodiversity, a fountain of culture, and a treasury of history

The Carpathian Mountains have always been seen as the cradle of the Romanian natural and cultural heritage over the centuries, serving as a true pillar of support for our national unity.

Carpathian Day, celebrated in Romania on 26 September, can be regarded as a genuine national celebration, even though it is not officially declared by any entity.

Carpathian Day to promote our shared natural and cultural heritage

Carpathian Day is an opportunity for Romanian communities from the mountain range to reaffirm their commitment to environmental stewardship and celebrate the common history, folklore, and natural splendor that the Carpathians represent.

Carpathian Day fosters a sense of community and national pride, bringing together individuals in a shared appreciation for the natural and cultural heritage of Romania. It's a day that transcends geographical boundaries, uniting people in their love for the Carpathians and what they symbolize for the mountain communities.

Romanians celebrate this day, marking it with a variety of events that highlight the significance of the Carpathian Mountains in our identity
